Fire was mostly in the attic, but some fire was located on the backside of the wall adjoining the bar. After the fire was knocked down and some smoke cleared, fire was located below the floor of the bar. The most charred area was along the bar wall near the kitchen. While doing final overhaul of the area, a smell of gasoline in this area was present. It appeared the fire in this area flashed over before we made entry, as the rafters away from the fire were charred.
